

RUSSIANS ACHEIVE ANOTHER SUCCESS

Following Capture of Great Austrian Fortress They have Followed up Their Victory.

London, April 5.—The Russian army, which took the Austrian fortress of Przemyśl, has achieved another victory. Starting westward from the Galician stronghold immediately after its fall, the Muscovites now have entered the Beskid mountains—a range which connects the Little Carpathians with the eastern Carpathians and forms part of the boundary between Galicia and Hungary—and driven out the Austrians, who had stubbornly held the passes and heights. Brief indeed is Vienna's account that this vantage point, the gateway to the plans of northern Hungary, has been evacuated. It says merely that the Austrians were compelled to make the move because of the presence of large Russian reinforcements from Przemyśl.

To the eastward in the Carpathians sanguinary fighting is taking place. Both the Austrians and the Russians claim victories at various points and the capture of men and guns. In the region of Virawa, Austria asserts that 2,020 prisoners were taken. In the vicinity of Zalescitrów almost all the defenders of Russian fortifications were killed by the heavy guns of the Austrians when the position was taken. This admission is made by the Russian commander-in-chief, who, however, asserts that the place almost immediately was retaken by a counter-attack.

In north Poland a cavalry charge in the Suwalki district resulted in a defeat of the Germans who were driven away with loss in men killed or captured, according to Petrograd. Berlin says Russian attacks near Augustowo were repulsed.

There has been little fighting in the West. The French have taken the village of Regnieville, in the Woëvre district, from the Germans, and the Germans have captured from the Belgians the village of Dreigachten, south of Dixmude.

Semi-official reports reaching Petrograd say the Turkish armored cruiser Medjidieh has been sunk by a mine in the Black sea off the Russian coast.

Two steamers have been blown up as a result of the naval warfare. A German submarine has destroyed a British steamer in the English channel off the southern end of the coast of Cornwall, with a loss of four men of the crew, while a German steamer has been sent to the bottom by a mine in the Baltic.

YOUR HEALTH.

Don't Endanger it with Calomel. It is generally agreed by experts in this country and Europe that calomel has a very violent effect on the system. This accounts for the familiar disagreeable feeling accompanying a dose and the weakened condition following it.

Liv-Ver-Lax is a harmless vegetable compound, that is a mild, but effective substitute for calomel. It has all the effectiveness, but not the effect, of calomel. Its splendid value has brought it into such wide use that in some states it has almost entirely replaced calomel.

Just try Liv-Ver-Lax once, and you'll never use calomel again. Insist on the genuine, bearing the likeness and signature of L. K. Grisby, which is guaranteed to give satisfaction or money refunded. For sale by Laurens Drug Co.

FOREIGN ADVERTISING.

Newspapers from Distant Lands—Oddities of the Foreign Press.

The Chamberlain Medicine Company, Des Moines, Iowa, manufacturers of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, advertise not only in this country but in foreign lands. A copy of each issue of every newspaper containing their advertisements is sent to the office of the Chamberlain Medicine Company as a proof of the insertion of the advertisement. Some of the papers bear names of places, which require one to recall forgotten geography or refer to the atlas to locate. Some of them are particularly curious as they are published in the vernacular or native languages which might be likened to the carefully written notes of a shorthand writer.

There are the well known Chinese characters arranged in vertical lines reading from top to bottom, the lines arranged from right to left.

The Burmese language, as printed is composed principally of a combination of circles. Some one wittily suggested that for this reason circulars would be properly printed in this language.

Cingalese, the language of Ceylon, is also curvilinear. Javanese and Siamese are composed largely of vertical lines connected by loops at either top or bottom but rarely at both. These languages bear some resemblance to the vertical writing now practiced in our public schools.

The four hundred million people of India have nearly fifty different dialects or vernaculars. The Chamberlain Medicine Company advertises in ten of the principal ones as follows: Bengali, Gujarathi, Hindi, Kanarese, Malayalam, Marathi, Sindhi, Tamil, Telegu and Urdu. The Sindhi and Urdu are written from right to left in the Hebrew fashion. The Urdu is a sort of scrip and is so chaotic in shape that it is impossible to reduce it to the movable type form. Papers printed in the Urdu language are therefore first written out by hand a plate made by the lithograph process. The "Oudh Akhbar", a sixteen page daily published at Lucknow in this language, claims a circulation of about 5,000. It is said that in order to handle this circulation it requires an office force of about 200. Fortunately for the managers, the wages paid to natives are only a few cents a day.

The Chamberlain Medicine Company advertises in newspapers printed in thirty-two languages. Besides the vernaculars and the well known European languages, French, Spanish, Portuguese, Dutch, German, etc., the list embraces a number of languages which until comparatively recent times possessed no alphabet but for which the Roman alphabet has been adopted. Among these are the native Hawaiian, Samoan, Tagalog (Philippine Islands), Kafir, Zulu and Basuto, of South Africa. There is also a modern form of the Malay language using Roman characters, known as Romanized Malay. This is used in Java and the East Indies.

TRY TIDWELL IN MAY.

Next Trial of Clinton Man Charged with Murder in Greenville Expected to Attract Much Attention.

Greenville, April 5.—When the trial of George W. Tidwell for murder comes up for the second time next May it will probably find several witnesses afar from the city, unless an unexpected "return" occurs between now and the opening date of the hearing. At least two witnesses whose evidence for the state was conspicuous and of weight have left Greenville. William G. Woods, who is alleged to have been involved in the affair that Tidwell claimed caused the tragic ending, left Greenville shortly after the first trial last May, a year ago.

Woods, who at one time was under a bond of $200 for his appearance, will be subpoenaed if his whereabouts are known. He was regarded by lawyers and others who followed the first trial as the chief witness for the prosecution. "Pat" Bussey, another witness for the state, has departed. He left several days ago, having returned to the city after his first departure immediately after the trial. Another party is said to have flown for fear that he might be called as a witness.

Other changes have taken place since last May, though the counsel who will again fight for the life and death of the man remains the same. James H. Price, Wilton H. Earle and H. K. Townes represent the defendant, while Solicitor Bonham will have the assistance of Cothran, Dean & Cothran in the prosecution.

The second trial is expected to attract the same attention evidenced at the hearing a year ago. Time has not dulled the edge of public interest.

The next battle will be fought under changed circumstances, it would seem, since the supreme court in granting a new trial decided that some of the testimony adduced relative to Tidwell's wife (who did not take the stand) was irrelevant and incompetent. The higher court also ruled against the drawing of the twelfth jury from an extra panel when the original venire had not been exhausted. This exception, however, could have no consequence upon a new trial.

Judge Geo. E. Prince of Anderson is scheduled to preside at the May term of the court of general sessions, which opens here on the second Monday of May, the 10th. Judge Prince is a "jurist of the old school" and is recognized throughout the state as a very able judge. Judge Tom Joe Mauldin, of Pickens, held court at Tidwell's first trial.

COLUMBIA TIGHTER THAN EVER BEFORE

Law Enforcement Program in Columbia Brings About Unprecedented Dryness.

Columbia, April 3.—Mayor Lewis A. Griffith, Chief of Police, J. W. Richardson and the entire city council of Columbia called on Governor Manning in a body at noon today following publication this morning of the information that the Governor had gone over the head of the Mayor and had called on Sheriff J. C. McCain, of Richland county, to enforce the laws in the city of Columbia. The Columbia city authorities assured the Governor that they were doing all in their power to enforce the laws in the city and said that the blind tigers had been put out of business, all the lockers removed from the clubs and a vigilant effort made to enforce all the laws. The chief of police said he had full authority to close all blind tigers and Mayor Griffith had placed a sum of money at his disposal to hire plain clothes men to ferret out suspected places.

The council met in special session this morning in the mayor's office to consider the situation and decided to call on Governor Manning in a body. Mayor Griffith, Councilmen R. C. Keenan, M. M. Rice, E. M. DuPre and C. M. Asbill, with Chief of Police John W. Richardson reached the governor's office at 12:30 and were immediately admitted to the governor's private office, where Governor Manning was waiting for them. Mayor Griffith asked Chief Richardson to state what had been done towards enforcing the law against illicit liquor selling in Columbia.

The chief said the blind tigers had been put out of business, the clubs had removed all their lockers and that Columbia was "tighter" than it had been in years. He said there might be a few "hip" pocket tigers left, but he and his force were making every effort to apprehend these, obviously a very difficult problem. He stated that the gambling joints had been closed and put out of business and there had been some complaints of gambling in a few pool rooms and he was working on these and collecting evidence through plain clothes men. In response to a question from the mayor, the chief said that all the blind tigers had been closed since about the 15th of March, directly after the "one-a-month" law went into effect. He also stated that Mayor Griffith had placed a sum of money at his disposal to employ detectives to ferret out evidence of any law violations.

"I have full authority to enforce the laws," said the chief, and he insisted that he had done his duty to the best of his ability and that Columbia was "tighter" today than it had even been. In this he was corroborated by the mayor and council. The governor asked the chief if he had full authority to enforce the laws without having to wait on instructions from the mayor or anyone else, and he replied that he had full and complete authority. On questions from the mayor, the chief stated that council and the mayor had instructed him to enforce all the laws and had given him full authority and neither the mayor nor any of the council had interfered with him in carrying out these instructions.
